

*Better engineering from the start
... a better partner to the finish*

To Whom It May Concern:

It is my pleasure to provide this letter of recommendation for Garrett Fitzgerald. Garrett has been working as a marketing intern with DG Medical since January 2013 and will continue with us until his graduation from the University of Dayton in May of this year.

Garrett is very dependable and has displayed a strong and professional work ethic during his time at DG Medical. I have found him to be very intelligent and a self-starter with a willingness to take on new tasks and follow them through to completion in a timely manner.

Garrett has excellent writing and communications skills. While at DG Medical, he has been instrumental in developing our social media presence on Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn. His efforts have significantly increased our following through these sites. Additionally, he has used his writing skills to develop press releases and other communications distributed via email to our customers, prospects and industry media. His efforts have helped to increase awareness of DG Medical as a contract manufacturer in the medical device industry.

I have found Garrett to be very computer savvy, easily picking up on various computer programs. This has been particularly helpful in updating our website. Although Garrett was unfamiliar with the platform, he took the initiative to learn and discover more about it in order to update our website postings and provide improved SEO.

Unfortunately, our current structure will not allow us to add Garrett to our marketing department at this time, but I can highly recommend him for any organization that desires a team player with a positive can-do attitude.

I have included my contact information below if you would like to contact me directly.

Sincerely,
